Jesus : Who He Was by Hachiro Kubota

Jesus came from Venus through reincarnation

Jesus Christ, one of the greatest sages in history, has been deified to an extent that can almost be called illusion. Every description regarding Jesus in the New Testament has been believed to be the absolute truth. I believe he was certainly a human being who once lived on Earth, and I can't help speculating about what kind of man he really was.

First of all, it is certain that he did not appear here to establish a religious organization. According to George Adamski, Jesus came to Earth from Venus, a planet with a tremendously advanced civilization, through the process called reincarnation, in order to save this world. This was mentioned by Adamski in one of his books, "Inside The Space Ship," as part of a story told by a space woman.

On February 18, 1953, Adamski, after receiving a telepathic message from a space man, left his residence on the slopes of Mount Palomar in southern California for Los Angeles. (Ms. Alice Wells, Adamski's closest assistant, told me that he took a Greyhound bus from Ocean Side to L.A. After visiting and interviewing Alice, I took the same bus on the same route. It was a very comfortable trip.)

In the evening that day, a Martian and a Saturnian visited Adamski at the hotel where he was staying. (It was called the Hotel Clark, on Hill Street in downtown L.A. Adamski always stayed there when he visited in the city. It was torn down recently.)

They took Adamski out to the desert by car, where a Scout Ship, a small saucer-type spacecraft that can accommodate only a few people, was waiting for them. After they boarded the scout ship it lifted off, finally entering a huge cigar-shaped Mother Ship high above. It was there in the Mother Ship, after meeting with a Venusian Master, that Adamski heard from Kalna, a woman from Venus, a very important story about Jesus. It went as follows (quoted from p.104 and 105 of "Inside The Space Ship"; the name Kalna was given by Adamski):

. . . After she had distributed the glasses, I said, "About these people from other planets who are living amongst us . . . has that been going on for long?"

It was Kalna who answered, "Since time immemorial! Or at least," she corrected herself, "for the past two thousand years. After the crucifixion of Jesus, who was sent to be incarnated on your world to help your people, as had others before him, we decided to carry on our mission in a way less perilous to those concerned than actual birth on your planet. This was made possible by the great advance in our space traveling ships. We were able to bring volunteers in their physical bodies. These men are carefully trained for their mission and receive instructions in regard to their personal safety. Their identity is never revealed except, rarely, to one or another individual for a definite purpose, as with you [Adamski].”

In this manner, the Venusian woman told Adamski that Jesus, a former Venusian, had been reincarnated and born by a woman who lived in the land of Palestine. The story that, as the angel Gabriel had told her, Mary bore Jesus as a virgin, is certainly controversial — very unrealistic almost to the point that it might be called a fairy tale. In reality, he must have been born in a very earthly environment as a human baby of human parents. He must have had his earthly father. But he has been deified and placed in a realm detached from this human world, probably influenced by the Biblism that arose in the medieval age.

It is, however, also clear that Jesus was, in various respects, an extremely advanced person for an earthling. In late March of this year I received some very interesting documents regarding Jesus from Ms. Patricia Finch, a representative of the Axminster Light Centre in England, one of the best researchers in this field, and one of my close correspondents. I would like to introduce to you to some of those documents, which are, I believe, quite revealing of the kind of person the real Jesus was.

The Emperor Tiberius

First, though, let's take a short look at the Roman Empire, which ruled Palestine in the time of Jesus. A great work, “The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire,” by Edward Gibbon, tells the story. In short, Rome originated as a city-state ruled by a king in around 600 B.C. It was once occupied by Etruscans, but in around 510 B.C., the Roman nobility expelled the Etruscan king and Rome became a republic. To think of establishing a republic in that day and age reveals the truly advanced state of Roman politics.

After various twists and turns, Rome, in 27 B.C., became an empire when Octavian returned from a series of victorious campaigns and received from the senate the honorific Augustus. Octavian had been favored by Julius Caesar, the bravest Roman military commander, well-known for his love affair with Cleopatra, which had its tragic end, and had become Caesar's adopted son. In 44 B.C., Octavian (Augustus) changed his name to Gaius Julius Caesar, after his father-in-law. Thereafter, in the Julius Claudius dynasty, every emperor's last name was Caesar, making “Caesar” something of a pronoun for later Roman emperors.

Jesus was born during the time of this Augustus' reign, and preached to people during the reign of the second Roman emperor, Tiberius. The latter period seemed to lack harmony because of antagonism with the senate.

Pontius Pilate's report to Rome

Israel could not maintain the prosperity and glory it enjoyed at its zenith during the reign of King Solomon, son of King David. Soon after the death of Solomon, it was divided into two, the northern half, having Samaria as its capital, and Judah, the southern half. Solomon's family allegedly stayed in the southern kingdom. In time, after some ups and downs, both kingdoms collapsed, and, although Judah made a comeback later, that did not last. When the Hasmonean dynasty was ended by Pompeius from Rome in 63 B.C., Judah fell under the complete control of the Roman Empire.

During the reign of Tiberius, Pontius Pilate came to Jerusalem from Rome as the governor of Judea. He was the man who finally sentenced Jesus to death. But we can sense from the New Testament that he had deep sympathy for Jesus and did not personally want him executed. Nevertheless, because it was a kind of public trial and the crowd kept shouting, “Kill him!” Pilate probably could do nothing but accept the demand. He might even have been afraid of being punished himself by the emperor, for, if he freed Jesus, it was very probable that the angry crowd would have rioted.

One of the documents that Ms. Finch recently sent to me not only reveals Jesus' features, but confirms clearly the above description regarding Pilate. It is a report about Jesus, written by Pilate and sent to Tiberius Caesar in Rome. It has been stored in the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., and it goes like this.

The physical appearance of Jesus Christ

To Tiberius Caesar:

A young man appeared in Galilee preaching with humble unction, a new law in the Name of the God that had sent him. At first I was apprehensive that His design was to stir up the people against the Romans, but my fears were soon dispelled. Jesus of Nazareth spoke rather as a friend of the Romans than of the Jews. One day I observed in the midst of a group of people a young man who was leaning against a tree, calmly addressing the multitude. I was told it was Jesus. This I could easily have suspected so great was the difference between Him and those who were listening to Him. His golden colored hair and beard gave to his appearance a celestial aspect. He appeared to be about 30 years of age. Never have I seen a sweeter or more serene countenance. What a contrast between Him and His bearers with their black beards and tawny complexions! Unwilling to interrupt Him by my presence, I continued my walk but signified to my secretary to join the group and listen. Later, my secretary reported that never had he seen in the works of all the philosophers anything that compared to the teachings of Jesus. He told me that Jesus was neither seditious nor rebellious, so we extended to Him our protection. He was at liberty to act, to speak, to assemble and to address the people. This unlimited freedom provoked the Jews - not the poor but the rich and powerful.

Pilate trembled before Jesus

Later, I wrote to Jesus requesting an interview with Him at the Praetorium. He came. When the Nazarene made His appearance I was having my morning walk and as I faced Him my feet seemed fastened with an iron hand to the marble pavement and I trembled in every limb as a guilty culprit, though He was calm. For some time I stood admiring this extraordinary Man. There was nothing in Him that was repelling, nor in His character, yet I felt awed in His presence. I told Him that there was a magnetic simplicity about Him and His personality that elevated Him far above the philosophers and teachers of His day. All in all, He made a deep impression upon me and everyone because of His kindness, simplicity, humility and love.

Now, Noble Sovereign, these are the facts concerning Jesus of Nazareth and I have taken the time to write you in detail concerning these matters. I say that such a man who could convert water into wine, change death into life, disease into health, calm the stormy seas, is not guilty of any criminal offense and as others have said, we must agree - truly this is the Son of God!

Your most obedient servant,
Pontius Pilate

Another description of Jesus Christ

There is one more document regarding Jesus that I would like to introduce to you. It was written by Publius Lentrelus, a resident of Judea during the reign of Tiberius Caesar, to the sovereign in Rome. It first appeared in the writings of Saint Anselm of Canterbury in the eleventh century.

It is as follows.

There lives at this time in Judea a Man of singular virtue whose name is Jesus Christ, whom the barbarians esteem as a prophet, but his followers love and adore him as the offspring of the immortal God. He calls back the dead from the graves and heals all sorts of diseases with a word, or touch. He is a tall man, well-shaped, and of an amiable and reverend aspect; his hair of a color that can hardly be matched, falling into graceful curls, waving about and very agreeable crouching upon his shoulders, parted on the crown of the head, running as a stream to the front after the fashion of the Nazarites. His forehead high, large and imposing; his cheeks without spot or wrinkle, beautiful with a lovely red; his nose and mouth formed with exquisite symmetry; his beard, and of a color suitable to his hair, reaching below his chin and parted in the middle like a fork; his eyes bright blue, clear and serene. Look innocent, dignified, manly and mature. In proportion of body most perfect, and captivating; his arms and hands delectable to behold.

He rebukes with majesty, councils with mildness. His whole address whether in word or deed, being eloquent and grave. No man has seen him laugh, yet his manners are exceedingly pleasant, but he has wept frequently in the presence of men. He is temperate, modest and wise. A man for his extraordinary beauty and perfection, surpassing the children of men in every sense.

Between truth and falsehood

These descriptions of Jesus Christ give us a much clearer image of him. It is certain that he was not just a hero in a religious fairy tale, but a real person. And he must have been a superior human being with an extraordinarily well-balanced mind and body. Although the mystery regarding his birth is not completely solved, it will all be clear someday . . . perhaps through information from space.

We are also informed that Pilate, who sentenced Jesus Christ to death, was not the villain it is so often thought he was. On the contrary, he seems to have been a pure-minded man who could see and was moved by those beautiful qualities of Jesus. It is said that later Pilate was accused of misgovernment in Palestine, called back to Rome, and executed or forced to commit suicide.

There are so many stories speaking of Jesus and it is very difficult to distinguish the true from the false in them. Even the New Testament may not always be telling us the complete truth. It is probable that some descriptions have been exaggerated or even created. But no one can deny that Jesus actually lived on Earth, and that his words and deeds have had great influence for 2000 years. There must have been something powerful in him that keeps inspiring us somehow.

By the way, in his "Flying Saucers Have Landed," George Adamski explains in full detail how he met and communicated with a man from Venus who had come out of a Scout Ship landing in the vicinity of Desert Center, California. Adamski called the man Orthon (a name created by Adamski). According to one of his closest co-workers, Adamski used to tell a few of them that Orthon had been Jesus, who, having been crucified on Golgotha, was then reincarnated on Venus. Adamski also revealed to them that he himself had been John, who had tried to save Jesus until the end. George Adamski seems to have passed away without revealing a large part of his knowledge and experience.

George Adamski

In August, 1977, I visited Ms. Maria Cristina de Rueda, one of Adamski's best pupils, at her house in Mexico City. Her husband was a rich man, running a real estate business, and her house was a huge mansion, like a castle. I was led to a special room on the second floor and was astonished to see this portrait of Jesus hanging on one of the walls. It was life-size, painted in oils by George Adamski. According to Maria, Adamski painted it from his memory of an image of Jesus that had appeared on the screen of his mind, complete with a surrounding frame, gazing at him, while he had been trying to see one of his past lives. (It was well-known among Adamski's close co-workers that he had strong extrasensory perception.) This picture was hidden in the room and shown to very few people. According to her, I was the only Japanese who had ever seen it. After she past away, it was rolled up and put into her coffin, and was burned with her corpse in accordance with her will.

On November 22, 1997, the GAP-Japan Overseas Study Tour Team departed Narita for Israel. On the 23rd, in the morning, we climbed the Mount of Olives and, from the top, viewed the beautiful scenery of the Holy City, Jerusalem. After seeing the Wailing Wall, a ruin especially sacred to the Jews, we walked about 500 meters on a narrow road called Viadolorosa, on which Jesus is said to have walked carrying the Cross, toward Golgotha. On the hill of Golgotha there now stands a huge building, the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, dominating the small rocky hill. It is the most sacred place for Christians all over the world. We entered the building and walked up stairs to the second floor where the main altar of the church is located, directly over the hole that held the Cross almost 2000 years ago. There is a star-shaped ornament on the marble floor under the altar, and a hole in its center. Precisely below the hole in the ornament is a trace of the hole that held the Cross. You can touch the rocky surface through the hole in the ornament. It was my fourth visit there, and I took two pictures of the slightly changed scene at the altar. After having them developed, I found in one of them some mysterious rays of light. According to Mr. Makoto Akiyama, the straight horizontal rays seen on the upper part of the picture were the flight paths of Scanning Discs, remote-controlled minute spherical probing devices sent out from an extraterrestrial spacecraft, and the other strange-shaped rays were phenomena somehow caused by the flight of the Scanning Discs. These lights were not seen when the picture was taken. (Camera: Nikon FE2. Lens: Nikkor 28-70mm zoom. Film: Fuji Provia. Strobe: Nikon Speed Light SB-23.)

After visiting the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, we took a bus, crossed Kedron and went to Gethsemane at the foot of the Mount of Olives. In the garden were huge olive trees, some said to have been standing there since Jesus's time. After the Last Supper, Jesus walked down the stone steps (they also still exist), went across Kedron and arrived at Gethsemane. There he threw himself on a rock and prayed through the night. Peter and two other disciples were with Jesus then. He told them to stay awake and watch him, but they all fell asleep. Then next morning followers of Caiaphas, the High Priest, came to arrest Jesus, and he, after an ardent argument, was taken to the house of Caiaphas. The rock Jesus threw himself on to pray has become the main altar of the Basilica of the Agony (see the roughly rectangular part of the floor in front of the priests). The church was built with donations from Christians all over the world. When we arrived there in the afternoon, a Mass was being held. To me, the top of the rock looked lower than I had seen it before. I took two pictures of the altar, and had them developed after coming back to Japan. In one of them I again found strange traces of light. According to Mr. Akiyama, they were also caused by the Scanning Disks. I used the same photo equipment as I used to take the preceding picture. The strobe flashed for only 1/1000 second. Probably these rays of light appeared during that extremely short period of time. If so, it is very likely that they were invisible to the naked eye.

A UFO in the Sky over Kawasaki City

On November 2, 1997, around noon, in the sky over Kawasaki City, Kanagawa Prefecture, Japan, a UFO appeared and remaining unmoving for a brief time. After Mr. Kato had taken four pictures of it, it suddenly flew away at tremendous speed, with a flashing light. This picture is the fifth one, taken just before it went out of sight.

Questions & Answers

by George Adamski

This Q & A was published by George Adamski in 1957 and sent to his co-workers all over the world. This contains much valuable information on UFO issues even now. (Editor, Uc)

Q90. Did you submit a manuscript to a science fiction magazine editor in 1943 which was essentially the same as you later reported in FLYING SAUCERS HAVE LANDED, except the name Jesus Christ was used for the Venusian ?

A: Definitely not ! I am at a loss to understand what made Ray Palmer publish this false statement.

In 1943, at the time this manuscript was supposedly written, I was doing no writing whatsoever. This was during the war and I was on a ranch in Vally Center, raising chickens, caring for a fruit orchard, and doing my part as a fire warden. I had no secretary during those years, and I do not use a type-writer.

Mr. Palmer admits that he is depending entirely upon memory for his statements. Isn't it strange that his memory should start to function six years after FLYING SAUCERS HAVE LANDED was published? And it is now fifteen years since this fictitious manuscript was supposed to have been submitted . . . why has he not mentioned it before?

My report of meeting the Venusian in the California desert on November 20th, 1952, as recorded in the above mentioned book, was the first writing of this kind I ever did. This is a non-fiction book, and is factual in every respect.

Q91. Do you support the "Project Outer Space" whose literature solicits funds for making a movie, and lists your name as a participant ?

A: I certainly do NOT ! My name was added to this literature without my knowledge or permission. I have never met or corresponded with either Ron or June Ormond, who are sponsoring this project. In fact, although my name was used in this advertising, no one at that office even bothered to send me a copy ! Had it not been for a friend who received this literature, and realized that I should know about it, I still would be completely unaware that my name was being misused.

As quickly as I learned of this method for raising money — based on such amazing claims — I turned the matter over to my attorney with instructions that he take whatever action was necessary to have my name removed from their advertising, and requesting that all monies received under these false pretenses be returned. If, then, people still want to contribute to this project, that is their privilege.

My attorney has advised me that the procedure being followed by the sponsors of "Project Outer Space" is illegal, and that he has contacted them regarding this matter.

Q92. I have heard of persons who claim to be able to arrange a meeting with space travelers at any time. Is this possible ?

A: It is my conviction that all such claims are nothing more than rackets ; many for monetary gain. So far as I know, it is impossible for anyone to arrange a personal contact with the visitors at any time.

If these claimants allude to some sort of a "mystical contact" that is one thing. But from the information I have received, their references are to actual meetings with a space person. These are nothing more than hoaxes perpetrated upon sincere people ; which I cannot support in any way.

If it were possible for me to guarantee a personal contact or even a close sighting, I could have been a very wealthy man today. For, since I first met Orthon in 1952, I have received attractive offers from around world requesting one or both. However, although I continue to meet the Brothers at quite frequent intervals, in all honesty I must admit I cannot foretell just when or where meeting will take place.

Q93. Where can I secure prints of the photographs you have taken of the space craft ?

A: Our office has copies of these photographs, hand printed from their original negatives. If we had them machine run, they could be developed more cheaply ; but I want to have the best prints possible. These sell for 50c each. I am, of course, unable to replace my negatives ; so they must be handled with care. If, as some have stated, I had used a model for these photographs, this precaution would be unnecessary. I could simply take another picture of the model !

However, since I took my original photos, similar pictures have been taken by many people in various parts of the world. This similarity would be impossible if the craft were not real. Naturally, there will always be those who endeavor to discredit which they have not personally experienced. But more and more people are seeing these craft, and more and more are succeeding in photographing them.

Besides my photographs that are reproduced in FLYING SAUCERS HAVE LANDED and INSIDE THE SPACE SHIPS, [have a set of three pictures taken from movie frames, showing one of our largest jets rising toward two huge discs hovering far out in our atmosphere. I was following the jet with my camera in taking this picture, and caught it as it was approaching the discs, as it passed under them, and as it continued on its way ; leaving the discs hanging motionless, clearly visible through the jet's vapor trail. These, too, sell for 50c each.

I have prints of the orthographic drawing made by Mr. Leonard G. Cramp, wherein he compares the photo I took of the scout ship with the picture taken by Stephen Darbishire in England ; and prints of the picture taken by young Stephen. Also, prints of the diagrams of space craft reproduced in INSIDE THE SPACE SHIPS. All of these sell for 25c each.

By popular demand of those who have seen the oil painting of Orthon made from my description, a photograph was taken of this painting ; and sells for 25c.

Q94. Do we interpret the Bible correctly when we believe in the second coming of Christ in person ?

A: What chance would Jesus have if He were to return to Earth in fulfillment of Bible Prophecy ? And if He did who would recognize Him and be sure of His identity ? There have been many impersonations during the centuries !

If He healed the sick as He did before, would He not be branded a charlatan and persecuted by the medical associations of the world ? If He performed miracles, would He not be accused of practicing mysticism ? If He were not born here, but came in a space ship how would He be welcomed ? And if He were to be born here again, would we accept Him ? He was rejected before !

Unless one's conscious perception is awakened, rather than sleeping under the blanket of materialism, how could one hope to recognize a man who in appearance would be no different from others ?

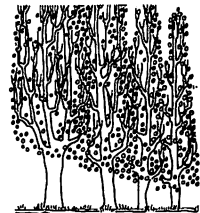

Were Jesus to return and be accepted, it would mean that all of our present systems would be overthrown to make way for His Cosmic Teachings. Are we prepared for this ?

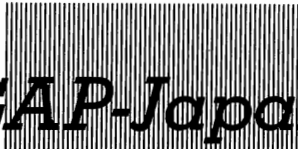

Q95. Are there people living on the sun ?

A: This is possible, but I have received no report of any space travelers landing there. According to what they have told me, little is really understood about the sun ; even by those who are traveling space. Our own scientists now acknowledge that the sun is not the hot body we once thought it to be. Rather, it is a natural planetary body whose purpose in the system differs from that of the ordinary planet. Our sun, or the sun in any system, can best be compared to an enormous generator ; a central unit of energy whose influence activates space within the system.

We must admit that as yet we know very little about Nature, so can only reason. Forms of all kinds, including the human, can be born to survive in greatly varied environments. For example, people are born in Arctic zones and live happily under frigid conditions ; people are born in tropical climes and are content in the intense heat and heavy humidity. Yet, it is possible for individuals from either of these extremes to acclimate to the opposite.

So Man throughout the Cosmos adjusts his living habits to conform with natural conditions wherever he finds them.

GAP-Japan

by Junichi Kato, chief secretary of GAP-Japan

GAP-Japan was founded by Hachiro Kubota in 1961 at the request of George Adamski himself. In 1953, immediately after reading "Flying Saucers Have Landed," written by Adamski, Kubota, convinced that the contents were true, wrote a letter to Adamski. This began a long correspondence between them. In a letter to Kubota dated Nov. 25, 1957, Adamski asked Kubota to establish GAP-Japan. Kubota agreed, and, after a period of preparation, published the first bulletin of GAP-Japan, "UFO-contactee," in Sep. 1961. Since then, for 37 years, Kubota has made tremendous efforts to preserve and expand the organization, informing people in Japan of what George Adamski had to tell us. GAP-Japan now has 1600 members and is about to publish the 143rd issue of "UFO-contactee." Kubota has translated all the books and texts by Adamski and has had them published in Japan as the "Complete Collection of George Adamski," which consists of 11 volumes, providing valuable knowledge on the truth behind UFOs and advanced civilizations on other planets to the people of Japan. He received the translation and publication rights to them from the late Mrs. Alice Wells, who was the successor to Adamski.

GAP-Japan holds a monthly seminar in Tokyo, where Kubota lectures to those attending. This year's text for the lectures is "Science of Life" by Adamski. These seminars have been held for about 30 years, and the text for Kubota's lectures is selected each year from the books and texts that Adamski left for us. GAP-Japan also holds a general assembly meeting every fall. It is a large annual conference featuring notable speakers in this field, gathering hundreds of people from all over Japan who sincerely seek cosmic truth. This year's conference was on Oct. 10. Mr. Daniel Ross, one of America's top UFO researchers and one of Kubota's closest friends, whose research is based solely on what Adamski told us, was the main speaker. He gave a splendid lecture on Mars that was warmly received by the audience.

GAP-Japan may be the only UFO study group in the world that seeks and studies cosmic truth based solely on what George Adamski taught us. This is probably why its members have attracted so much attention from space people. Many members of GAP-Japan see space ships frequently, and some of the members have had firsthand contact with space people.

Because of the nature of their activities, Kubota and the members of GAP-Japan have been criticized and slandered quite often by non-believers and others who lack a certain generosity. Nevertheless, with the support of a prominent lawyer, they continue to do what they believe they must, with their never-waivering faith in cosmic truth. Actually, Kubota has been in some dangerous situations, but has always managed to get out safely somehow, probably with the aid of space people. Those who act with a true cosmic spirit receive helping hands from space people all the time. Kubota, a graduate of Keio University, is still very young and vigorous in spirit, at the age of 74. He devotes himself to informing people of the cosmic truth, and leading young members of GAP-Japan. I believe another man of more restless energy cannot be found anywhere in the world.

On Nov. 20, 1952, George Adamski met a man from Venus who had just come out of a Venusian scout ship, in a desert area close to Desert Center, California, USA. Adamski described the incident in his book "Flying Saucers Have Landed." Although the majority of people would not believe it, Kubota, fully convinced that it was true, visited the area many times. Aided by two pictures reproduced in "Other Tongues - Other Flesh," by George Hunt Williamson, he finally found the exact spot, on Jan. 21, 1989, through intuitive perception, which was probably space people's telepathic guidance. Ever since then, he has, with the cooperation of others, conducted many study tours to the area. One of his groups saw UFOs appear in the sky frequently, and successfully photographed them. According to Mr. Z, a genuine contactee of space people and a member of GAP-Japan, Desert Center is a place that emits very good vibrations, according to a Venusian whom he met. GAP-Japan is now planning a big tour to Desert Center next year.

On Jan. 27, 1992, Kubota was in the desert with four other people, including me. At around 2 p.m., we saw a huge, cigar-shaped object in the sky, flying left to right (west to east). The object was very white, had no wings, was estimated at 400 to 500 meters long, and had a dark vertical line crossing the body slightly left of center. Three of us (Kubota, Yoshifumi Shino and Daniel Ross) saw the object with binoculars, two others (Atsushi Tanaka and I), with the naked eye. I noticed it first. Everyone agreed that it was not an airplane, but a strange and tremendously large object. Then, after a short while, a combat plane appeared in the sky to the east, moving westward, toward the object. When the plane got closer, the UFO suddenly disappeared. It might have used some sort of teleportation technique to do so. Later, Mr. Z reported that, according to some Venusians, the object had been a mother ship from Venus, and that only seven of its passengers had been looking down at Kubota and the others there. Most interestingly, Mr. Z also said, according to the same Venusians, one of the seven was George Adamski, who had reincarnated himself on Venus.

On July 28 this year, a little past 6 p.m., Kubota and I also sighted with binoculars a round-shaped UFO hovering for quite a long time in the sky over Kubota's apartment building. By the way, according to Mr. Z, the Venusians informed him that there are gigantic underground cities on Mars, as well as factories in which huge mother ships and saucer-shaped scout ships are under construction, requested by other planets in this solar system.

Hachiro Kubota, who is convinced based on various evidence that George Adamski's experience was genuine, is committed to spreading the message, through his GAP activities and with the aid of his young and able assistants, and to making the name of George Adamski eternal. GAP-Japan, headed by Kubota, has acquired information that space ships from other planets are coming to Earth in large numbers in the next century. It is now planning various projects to increase the degree of cooperation with space people, in order to prepare for the coming "real" space age. You will see them soon.
